SURVEY COMMITTEE MEETS MONDAY EVENING

The Bethel School Survey Committee met Monday evening with eight members present. The Secretary gave a brief summary of the trip of Aug. 2 in which seven members of the committee viewed some recently completed school buildings. Some findings of this trip were discussed.

There was much discussion of how many of the rural school rooms should be maintained. The committee finally voted to recommend that the Primary grades be maintained in each of the three rural schools now in use. The committee also voted to go on record as favoring the transportation of all seventh and eighth grade pupils to the village schools. Further considerations of this kind will be studied at the next meeting.

It is hoped that a larger attendance of committee members will be possible at the next meeting on Sept. 19. The committee also welcomes all interested citizens to its meetings as it endeavors to arrive at some reasonable solution of the conditions of overcrowding in the Bethel schools.

NO DUMP YET

With no specified place for dumping refuse the Bethel villagers have selected the Androscoggin bridge again as a popular spot for rubbish disposal. In the process they are damaging the paint now being applied by a State crew and leaving fragments of their offerings on the center pier. The Village Corporation assessors as yet have not been able to arrange for a new dump site.

SQUARE AND FOLK DANCING HERE NEXT TUESDAY

Square dances and folk dances will be enjoyed next Tuesday evening, Aug. 30, at Chabourne's barn lower Main Street. The event will be in charge of Mrs. Alice Dudley and Richard Cole of Bryant Pond. Everyone is invited. There is no admission charge but a collection will be taken. Soft drinks will be sold by 4-H club members. Dancing will start at 8:30.

WOODS FIRE AT ROXBURY CONTROLLED, 50 ACRES BURN

Fire was reported under control Tuesday night in Roxbury 50 acres were burned over that day. The fire was discovered in a pulpwood cutting operation on land of Swain & Reed. The damage is believed to be of incendiary origin as a man fled from the scene after the blaze was reported by children. About 200 volunteers aided firemen in fighting the fire.

VT. GUARDSMEN INJURED IN CRASH HERE SATURDAY

Three Vermont Air National Guardsmen were taken to the Rumford hospital Saturday afternoon with injuries received when a jeep was crushed between an automobile and a Guard truck. It is reported that the jeep, which with the truck was part of a 75 vehicle convoy en route from Fort Ethan Allen to Dow Field, "stopped behind a car and the truck crashed into it. Cpl. Joseph Jenot, who suffered a leg injury, was discharged from the hospital. Sunday. Cpl. Gerald Sweeney with abdominal injuries, and Sgt. Howard Mulaney, who suffered back and internal injuries, remained at the hospital. Their condition was reported to be good. All three were in the jeep and were from Burlington, Vt. Neither Miss Elizabeth Mills of Newport, Vt., nor her sister who accompanied her were injured.

The accident occurred near the Morgan filling station just west of the junction of Church and Railroad Streets on Route 2.

Mrs. Virgie McMillin cared for Mr. and Mrs. Murray Thurston's baby, David Paul, while they enjoyed a short vacation.

Those from Bethel attending the Tyler-Garey wedding Saturday afternoon, Aug. 20, in West Sumner were Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Forbes, Mrs. Frank Lowell and little daughter, Miss Rachel Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Adney Gurney and Mrs. Roscoe Truitt. Mrs. Truitt served as a bridesmaid.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR WELFARE BAZAAR

Details have been completed for the "Community Welfare Fund" Bazaar with excellent results anticipated. The enthusiasm and interest taken in this undertaking have been very good and should the attendance be as successful we should have an event that Bethel can look forward to annually.

Construction of the Midway started on Wednesday and will continue up to Saturday morning. All men, young and old, who would like to lend a helping hand are invited to report to the grounds. All Legionnaires wanting to help out in operating the Beano games and other booths please contact Herbert Kittredge.

A meeting will be held in the Legion Rooms Monday night at 8:00 o'clock with all members of the Welfare Fund Committee urged to be present so that the proceeds from the day may be turned over to them.

There will be a good time to be had by all and everyone is urged to attend for good wholesome entertainment.

Those in charge of the day's plans are very appreciative of the generosity of Gould Academy in granting the use of the field for athletic events.

The following is the order of field events to be held at the Academy Field from 1:30 to 2:30, on the afternoon of August 27 in conjunction with the Bazaar:

1. 50 yd. dash, boys UNDER 13.
2. 40 yd. dash, girls under 12.
3. 75 yd. dash, boys 13 to 16.
4. 50 yd. dash, girls 12 or over.
5. 100 yd. dash, free for all for men and boys.
6. Potato race, girls.
7. Potato race, boys.
8. Sack race, girls.
9. Sack race, boys.
10. Baseball throw, girls.

Ribbons will be given to winners of first three places in each event. First place winners will receive an additional prize.

THREE-QUARTER CENTURY CLUB TO MEET AUG. 31

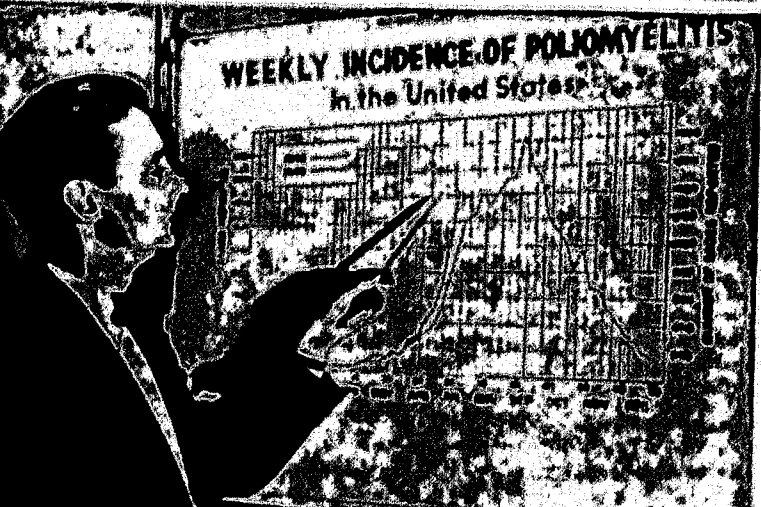

Many prizes and awards await the winners in the various "most" and "best" classifications at the annual outing of the Maine Three-Quarter Century Club in South Portland next Wednesday, August 31.

Contests will be held in such games as horseshoe pitching, checkers, knitting, fiddling, whistling and jig dancing. Prizes also will be awarded for such classifications as: Oldest person present, couple married the longest, those present having the most children, the most grandchildren, the most great grandchildren, the oldest twins present, the oldest brother and sister present (combined ages), and Maine resident coming the longest distance to the meeting.

The all-day meeting will be held at the War Memorial Music Shell, or in the adjacent South Portland High School Auditorium, if the weather is inclement.

After being suspended during the war years, the Maine Three-Quarter Century Club was revived three years ago by the Maine Publicity Bureau and now numbers more than 1,500 members. There are no dues or fees of any kind and it is open to all seasonal or permanent residents of Maine who are 75 years of age or more. Besides honoring Maine's old folks, the organization serves to point up the Publicity Bureau theme that "people live longer in Maine."

Registration will begin at 10 a. m. and the all day program will be featured by varied entertainment and several prominent speakers. Members will bring box lunches and the Publicity Bureau will provide free coffee. Registration may be made in advance with the Maine Publicity Bureau Gateway Circle, Portland, Maine.

Exalting the Word of God
Lesson for August 28: Psalm 19:
7-14; 119:1-8

Memory Selection: Psalm 119:11

LAST WEEK we studied the law of God in the universe. Today we think of the moral law for men. In every age men have fixed their standards of conduct, but these standards have been imperfect and oftentimes contradictory to each other. There could not be a thousand codes. There is but one code—that which centers in the will of God.

We find that in the latter part of the 19th Psalm the author turns from material law to the moral law within. As the law of God for material things is necessary to their existence, the law within is essential to the well-being of men. The moral law is perfect. After thinking of it, the psalmist prays to be kept from presumptuous sins; also that the words of his mouth and the meditations of his heart may be acceptable in God's sight.

In the 119th Psalm the writer sings of the blessedness of those who walk in the law of the Lord. They keep his testimonies and they do no unrighteousness. The psalmist expresses his desire to walk in God's ways, to observe his statutes, and to have respect unto his commandments. Thus do the ancient song-writers of Israel exalt the Word of God.

And we shall be wise to exalt it that we may enjoy well-being and true happiness. Apart from the Word, men have tried to find happiness and have failed. They have defied the law of God and have failed to "get by." Let us learn of the wisdom of the ages. Let us seek the highest life in the authority of the Word of God.

BACK TO WORK

by George Peck

An American returning to his homeland after an absence of twenty or twenty-five years would wonder what in the world had happened to the industrious people whom he had left behind. He would be saddened at the spectacle of millions of Americans demanding and getting more pay and giving in return work, less in quantity and inferior in quality.

The present situation brings back to mind a motto which I saw some years ago on the office wall of a business executive. It read:

"I am a great believer in luck; I find that the harder I work, the more I seem to have of it."

A few days after reading this brief essay on luck and work, I was the week end guest of a friend at his shooting lodge. There above the immense fireplace extending across the end of the livingroom was another motto. It seemed to go hand in hand with the one seen a few days before. It read: "He who chops his own wood gets warmed twice."

Those two mottos, it seems to me, most tersely and eloquently describe the America that was; an America that we must revive to make it once again a land where men work and take pride in doing their jobs well. It used to be the American concept that the man who worked a little harder and a little better deserved a larger reward than his less industrious and less skillful fellow-worker. Until recently no one in this country had ever thought of denying to that better worker his right to a larger compensation. It was the competitive spirit between Americans, whether they were workers or bosses, which was largely responsible for making America the most prosperous country the world has ever known, with the highest standard of living for all classes.

In recent years, and to relate, certain individuals and groups have been trying to upset this American scheme of things which justly rewards individual effort, initiative ability and thrift. They would have us abandon our right to pursue individual opportunity as it presents itself, or as we seek it out, they would deny to the individual the right to share in the profits of his own personal accomplishments. They demand that we set up here in America a different system under which there would be no incentive for the individual to work and to create.

For lack of a better name we call this great American system "Free Enterprise." Under it, for over a century and a half, as a nation and as individuals, we made great progress. If we cast out this system, our forward progress will cease, decay will set in, and we will lose our place at the head of the parade of nations. Defeat of Hitler and Hirohito will have availed us naught, and the billions of dollars we are now spending abroad to head off Communism will be wasted. If we lose at home those things for which our armed forces fought so valiantly and successfully in World War II, and which our dollars now fight for overseas.

Let us, therefore, turn deaf ears to the defamers of our American System of Free Competitive Enterprise. If we cast out this system, we are some individuals who abuse it, but for 150 years we were gradually eliminating these abuses. Let us resume with that refining process to make the best economic system ever devised in all the history of mankind, work even better.

Let's have done with something-for-nothing schemes; let's quit looking for a daily visit from Santa Claus, instead of his time-honored annual pilgrimage. Let's recognize again that old truth that "He who chops his own wood gets warmed twice." Let's get back to work. Hard work brought us luck in the past and hard work will bring us even better luck in the future.

I REMEMBER...

By THE OLD-TIMERS

From Mrs. A. F. Wood of S. Woodstock, Vt.: "I remember when women's bathing suits consisted of a pair of bloomers reaching from the waist to below the knee and held by a rubber cord at top and bottom, with a short-sleeved garment reaching from neck to kneecap and controlled at the waist by a belt."

From Mrs. Mary Stewart of Chicago: "I remember when wives or daughters trimmed father's hair and mustache, or grandpa's beard—and every family had a pair of hair clippers. Working men in those days rarely ever patronized a "tonsorial parlor."

From Myrtle M. Detrick of Springfield, O.: "I remember the great thrill we enjoyed when we made a trip aboard a street car drawn by horses. We would ride to the end of the line, then the horses would pull the car onto a turntable and soon we'd be traveling back over the same route. There were just a few tracks in the city (Knoxville, Tenn., that is) and none of great length."

From "Oldtimer Indeed" of Glover Gap, W. Va.: "I remember when kids had candy once a month... We got sugar only when we had company... when children got out and gathered mulberries... the old folks made our shoes out of boot tops... we had wheat bread once a week only—it was light bread or biscuits on Sunday."

(How about your memories of days gone by, old-timers? Address yours to this column in care of Mr. Friendly, Box 340, Frankfort, Ky.)

THE EVER-LENGTHENING SHADOW

In 1929 federal spending amounted to less than two-thirds of the personal income of the inhabitants of California. By 1947, federal expenditures were approximately equal to the total personal income of all the inhabitants of California, Washington, Oregon, Nevada, Idaho, Utah, Arizona, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and about four-fifths of Texas.

Federal expenditures amounted to $121 per family in 1929, $250 in 1938, and about $884 in 1948. Remember that these figures represent the spending of the federal government only. When state and local government spending is added, the total amounts to some 30 per cent of our national income. In other words, the American people devote nearly one third of their working time and effort to supporting their various governments.

IT CAN'T BE DONE...

Of course if it can't be done we can't do it. But you'd be surprised what we can do—not only with cars and radios, but with about every machine or appliance. Don't be discouraged, there may be a lot of service yet in the equipment that is giving trouble. Just bring it to us.

Rumford Pt., 16-Raiders 5

The baseball strategy of permitting the batting order leaders to hit safely and issuing passes to their less talented brethren placed at or very near the last of the roster thereby permitting each and every one to score one, two or three runs is a rare and somewhat novel method of playing the nation's leading summer pastime.

The Bethel Raiders, pioneers in the bizarre and unpredictable in baseball tried out this system on Sunday afternoon while playing a North Oxford Two-League game with the Rumford Point A. A. The Raiders lost 16 to 5 but were rewarded by the cheery smile of each opponent as he left the field and the satisfaction gained by scattering sunshine and good deeds in a gloomy and wicked world.

The game was played at Littlefield Beach, South Pond, in connection with the annual picnic and field day of Rumford Point-Rumford Center Men's Club.

To insure unqualified success for the latest method of losing a ball game eight errors were interspersed at strategic intervals and contributed largely to that end.

With the Pointers at bat the eighth was one of the wildest in the brief but somewhat erratic career of the Bethel Raiders. Lamson, batting first, lined to Wiff Robertson, Chase was passed, reached second on an error and the chronology of succeeding events was, briefly, as follows; two more passes, a single followed by an error, another hit, two more errors. During the excitement eight runs came in. Pete Baker groundout to short and Chase was called out on strikes to end the session.

Bill Robertson singled sharply to right to open the Raiders' ninth with the laudable intention of starting a tieing or game-winning rally. But alas for good intentions, Mr. Elliott spoiled everything by fanning Lawrence Bennett and forcing Clary Morgan and Glenn Witter to fly out to left and ground to first respectively.

Smith's running catch of Elliott's fly in the seventh and "Wiff" Robertson's leap to spear Lamson's liner in the eighth were the games outstanding contributions to orthodox baseball.

RAIDERS TAKE SECOND IN ROW FROM WEST BETHEL, 5-0 ON AUGUST 16

Bob Buker pitched three hit ball on Tuesday evening, Aug. 16, to shut out the West Bethel nine while his Raider teammates collected six hits which they cashed in for five runs.

Robert was given excellent support, the beneficiary of the single Raider error failing to advance beyond third base.

Home runs by "Bill" Robertson, in the first and third innings, each scoring a team mate ahead of him, featured the Raider attack while Buker's throw to first nipping the napping Dave Durgin to end the game proved the defense to be alert and adequate.

A team picked from the combined rosters of these aggregations under the joint management of "Spec" Guernsey and Paul Salway will meet a team from Phillips on the Gould Academy Athletic Field Saturday afternoon as a highlight of the Bazaar for the benefit of the Bethel Community Welfare Fund.

Locke Mill, 4-Raiders 1

The Bethel Raiders suffered their second straight defeat in league competition on Tuesday evening when the Locke Mills boys won 4 to 1 in a five inning contest at Thurston Field.

The single Raider tally came in the first inning when Clary Morgan, who drew a base on balls, stole second and third then raced to the plate when Johnson's throw to thwart the audacious Clary's second attempt at larceny sailed over the head of six foot plus Raymond Seames.

Two passes, a pair of hits including Bartlett's triple, an error and audacious base running netted the visitors their four runs in the second inning.

Swan and Reynold Jordan excelled in the field for Locke Mills and the Raider gold star was won by Al Smith who had a busy evening in the rough terrain skirting deep right field. Incidentally, Al has hit safely in twelve consecutive games.

"EASY DOES IT"

By HELEN HALE

WHEN YOU PLACE a frozen dessert in the freezing tray of your refrigerator, line the tray with heavy waxed paper before pouring in the dessert mixture. Then the dessert is easy to remove and slice, come serving time.

Prepare salad vegetables for readiness to serve as soon as they come in from the garden or market. Wash them thoroughly under cold, running water, with a spray attachment, for easy cleaning. Let them drain on a cake rack, then store in refrigerator. You can make salads in double quick time this way on hot days, simply by tossing them together with salad dressing.

Select foods which can be cooked for hot and sweltering days like ham slices, lamb chops, hamburgers, cubed steaks and fish fillets. A good way to prepare ham slices is to spread it with prepared mustard, and over that spread a paste of brown sugar moistened with pineapple juice.

While you do last minute dinner preparations, let the family relax

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Ham-Sweet Potato Salad

(Serves 8)

1½ cups diced, cooked ham
1½ cups diced, cooked sweet potatoes
1 cup diced celery
1 cup diced apples
1 cup orange sections
¼ cup nutmeats, if desired
Mayonnaise to moisten
Combine all ingredients. Toss lightly with just enough mayonnaise to moisten. Chill thoroughly, then serve in large lettuce cups.

on porch or garden with chilled fruit or tomato juice and munch on potato chips.

Cold meat and fruit combinations make delicious entrees to serve for dinner on a hot night. What about trying large chunks of ham with pineapple chunks, grape halves and lemon juice-thinned mayonnaise?

With cold veal loaf, there's nothing more refreshing than black and red cherries, banana chunks dipped in lemon juice, and some fresh apricot halves.

Magalloway Country

Allyn Washburn, Hartford, Conn.

Where the slopes of Boseback Mountain loom across the west horizon
And the silence of the forest reigns supreme,
Where the balsams and the spruces reach their tapered spires skyward

And Lake Azisconos reflects the sunlight's gleam,
There's a region that invites me with a charm that's never failing
And I put aside the cares of every day
And I leave the beaten highway where the "Elsie H" is sailing
To the country of the Big Magalloway.

Over miles of placid waters while the sunset shadows lengthen
'Till the Little River greets us just ahead
And I find a camp that's nestled up against a rugged hillside
Where the maple trees their sweeping branches spread.
Now the bull-frog in his chorus and the loon his plaintive wailing
Break the stillness to proclaim the close of day
And the wisps of fragrant woodsmoke from the camp come slowly trailing—
It's the country of the Big Magalloway.

When I scramble to the landing what a greeting I'm accorded
And a handshake strong that really makes me squint,
But I hear the voice behind it so I really never mind it—
It's none other than my good friend Perley Flint.
After supper for the morrow we make plans and do our scheming
Then decide that I would better "hit the hay"
So I stroll down to my cabin; very soon I'm softly dreaming
In the country of the Big Magalloway.

Very early in the morning come the coffee, eggs, and bacon,
Then we start out in the "Old Town" running light.
Morning mists would try to chill us but instead they really thrill us
As we pass the wooded islands on our right.
Now the sun creeps o'er the mountain and with gleaming paddles dripping

We swing our craft across a little bay,
Here my guide steps up the cadence and I find we're quickly slipping
Up the reaches of the Big Magalloway.

Now with flapping wings and clamour, flocks of Mallards leave the water
And they make a mighty rush to get away,
Then a partridge starts his drumming like he doesn't hear us coming
While a great Blue Heron stalks his finny prey.
Every living thing has awakened and it surely starts me thinking
Early morning is the grandest time of day.
Then a buck comes down the hillside and we see him calmly drinking
In the shallows of the Big Magalloway.

Now I try my skill at fishing and I do some fancy casting
And I bring to net a square tailed trout or two.
Land-locked salmon soon are striking in a way that's to my liking
So I change my fly and soon bring in a few.
How my appetite increases as the morning hours are fleeting
So we go ashore our hunger to allay.
When I smell the steak and coffee I can hardly wait for eating
At the lunchground on the Big Magalloway.

So the days are passing swiftly far from tumult, strife, and worry
As I travel over river, lake, and trail,
Lincoln Pond's enchantment holds me as its solitude enfolds me
Be it balmy sunshine, rain, or snow or gale
Or perhaps to Long Pond cabin where the speckled trout are playing
Or to Little Boy where plunging waters play
Or again to Farmhouse near the dam so long decaying
Up the trail along the Big Magalloway.

Now the cool of evening finds me sitting on the old veranda
Of my cabin looking out across the lake,
While the breeze that sways the branches with a softness that entrances
Seems to stir my soul to earthly cares forsake.
Starry studded dome of azure meeting mountains' ragged cresting
With a vastness as I contemplate below
'Till this thought comes slowly stealing as I sit relaxed and resting
It's the nearest thing to heaven that I know.

And I bring to net a square tailed trout or two.
Land-locked salmon soon are striking in a way that's to my liking
So I change my fly and soon bring in a few.
How my appetite increases as the morning hours are fleeting
So we go ashore our hunger to allay.
When I smell the steak and coffee I can hardly wait for eating
At the lunchground on the Big Magalloway.

So the days are passing swiftly far from tumult, strife, and worry
As I travel over river, lake, and trail,
Lincoln Pond's enchantment holds me as its solitude enfolds me
Be it balmy sunshine, rain, or snow or gale
Or perhaps to Long Pond cabin where the speckled trout are playing
Or to Little Boy where plunging waters play
Or again to Farmhouse near the dam so long decaying
Up the trail along the Big Magalloway.

Now the cool of evening finds me sitting on the old veranda
Of my cabin looking out across the lake,
While the breeze that sways the branches with a softness that entrances
Seems to stir my soul to earthly cares forsake.
Starry studded dome of azure meeting mountains' ragged cresting
With a vastness as I contemplate below
'Till this thought comes slowly stealing as I sit relaxed and resting
It's the nearest thing to heaven that I know.

Now I try my skill at fishing and I do some fancy casting
And I bring to net a square tailed trout or two.

Successful Parenthood

BY

MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS

Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

DID YOU KNOW that a baby's feet can be ruined before they have ever taken a step? Bed clothes that are stretched too tight can double the toes under or twist the feet into other unnatural positions. Lovely little booties, that look so sweet and appear so harmless because they are soft can, if they are too short, make the toes curl. It doesn't take very sturdy material to bind a baby's toes—it is several months before the toes are strong enough to poke through to freedom.

When your child reaches school age he will be walking from 10 to 14 miles a day, if you count all the steps he takes in play as well as in getting about. So you can see how important it is that he have healthy, well developed feet.

We are all aware that feet continue to grow in size well into adulthood; but did you know that a child's foot, instead of being a miniature adult foot, is of quite different structure? The adult foot has twenty-six well defined bones, the child's foot has soft masses of bony substance that takes years to grow into the proper shape. That is why the shoes a child wears play such a vital part in foot formation. Needless to say they should be flexible and roomy, and stockings, too, should be large enough to allow the toes full play. By all means take advantage of the professional advice offered at all the better stores which sell children's shoes.

Children's feet should be bathed daily. Moreover, they should never be encased in shoes which shut out all the air and thus prevent evaporation of moisture. Constant dampness makes children's feet weak as well as subject to infection. That is why shoes should have a cloth lining over the toes to absorb moisture during the daytime and allow for evaporation at night.

Here are some more rules to be applied in choosing a child's shoes:

A last that conforms to the child's foot.

A firm, well-moulded counter to hold the heel straight. The counter serves as the rudder. A good one is necessary to keep the youngster walking straight.

A soft, flexible box toe, so that you can feel where the end of the toe is.

A flexible leather inner and outer sole to keep the shoe in shape and allow the toes free action.

A rubber heel to absorb the shock of pavement pounding on shoes that have outside heels.

Snuggles around the heel, under the arch, over the instep where the laces tie, freedom at the ball of the big toe, the top of the toes, at the little toe to prevent curling, and one inch of "grow" room.

Daily foot exercises will help build strong feet and improve posture as well. Join your children in the following barefoot exercises:

Walk a straight line—feet parallel to each other.

Walk on your toes, then run on your toes.

Practice toe gripping—picking up a marble or a pencil with your toes.

Stand with weight on outer edge of foot and grip the toes.

Walk first on the heel and then on the toes.

They say that the danger of woods fires due to the dry weather is nearly as great as it was in the fall of 1947. Those who work in the woods or who have worked outdoors lately will agree to this. Two years ago many people kept a shovel in their cars knowing that it might be of great help if they discovered a blaze in its early stages. It would be well to resume this practice now.

There are several street corners in Bethel village that could be much improved so far as visibility for motorists is concerned if bushes and shrubs were removed. A wooden stub or stump has been reported in the street near the common. Perhaps this is exactly where the Christmas tree was last winter. Anyway it serves no useful purpose at present and might become a hazard to car or pedestrian. . . . Trees beside the village streets are still something to think about. Like the sidewalks which have shrunk in the last 40 years, the trees are less in number. If no young trees are added, in time Bethel's beauty will be gone. In the past 10 or 15 years many trees have been cut down which could have been saved, other trees with a little care are good for years. . . . Why not consider definite plans for a permanent honor roll for those who served in World War II. Attempts in this direction so far have not been successful.

ELEANOR GORDON GUILD CHOOSES OFFICERS

The Eleanor Gordon Guild met at the home of Phyllis Dock Wednesday evening. The nominating committee gave their report. The new officers are as follows: president, Peggy Blake; vice-president, Hilda Brown; secretary, Polly Davis; treasurer, Eugenia Haselett; auditing committee, Nat Wright, Betty Blake. The installation committee will be Mary Paine, Frances Saunders, Evelyn Roberts. Mrs. Penner will be asked to be the officer.

Hostesses for installation are Peggy Blake, Virginia Keniston, Arlene Walker. Entertainment for installation, Dot Christie, Nat Wright, Althea Brown. The meetings from now on will be all business meetings instead of every other one. Lou Bean and Phyllis Dock will work at the Well Baby Clinic for the next three months.

LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

I don't too often agree 100 per cent with Uncle Harry on how he deducts our type of Govt. could be done over into some new shape or color or type. He has too many folks at his elbow that I don't know too much about. If they have proved they know for sure what they are talking about—or have been a howling success on their own hook before they landed there at Uncle Harry's elbow.

But to prove that I am not 100 per cent biased, I agree with everything our boss-man said to a group of youngsters calling at the White House recent-like—they were members of the American Legion.

10 YEARS AGO

Dr. Henry H. Crane of Detroit, Mich., preached at the 25th anniversary service of West Bethel Union Church. Dr. Crane was the student pastor of the church 25 years before and many friends greeted him on his return visit.

Myron Bryant caught a 400 pound tuna in a battle of five hours and 10 minutes at the Richmond Island fishing grounds.

Mrs. Gertrude Hall of South Portland was drowned at Howard Pond. New teachers announced at Gould Academy were Barlow T. Loomis and Robert R. Rathbone.

Announcement was made that Sunday passenger train service would be discontinued after Sept. 17.

20 YEARS AGO

Evelyn Howe and Arline Littlehale of Bryant Pond were named the best 4-H bread team in the State.

The seventh annual Littlehale reunion was held at Wight's Brook Camps, North Newry.

Dr. J. E. Aubrey delivered the lecture, "The One Mile Town," at Chataqua here. "H. M. S. Pinafore" was presented the same evening.

A Buick roadster with Ohio registration overturned and burned near the Roberts place in Gilead. Four occupants were not seriously injured.

Death—James Blaisdell.

30 YEARS AGO

Miss Helen York, coloratura soprano, gave a concert here. Miss Blanche Herrick was accompanist and the Misses Esther Tyler and Marjorie Farwell played piano solos.

Twenty four veterans of the 23d Maine Regiment enjoyed a reunion at South Paris.

J. Waldo Nash suffered a shock on Mount Caribou and died at his home at Norway the next morning. As a taxidermist he was widely known as "Nash of Maine."

Scott Wight purchased the Charles Cole residence on Mechanic Street.

Boys' Forum. What did he say, says Henry. He told the boys, I says, that "everybody in the country seems to know how to do the president's job better than he does." That is how the paper told it.

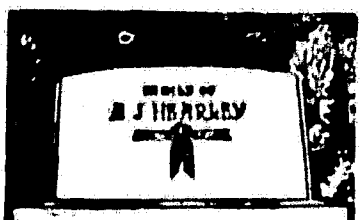

So, since we both agree thereon, I will put in my oar and tell him one good thing to do—and pronto. It is this, call out a one-half million from the Govt. payroll which now numbers 2,111,331. And all you readers—wherever your domicile—do your bit—help the boss out with suggestions. All of us, together, we can maybe get the country back on the beam.

MARGARET TIBBETTS TO BE ATTACHE AT U. S. EMBASSY IN LONDON

Miss Margaret Joy Tibbetts, who recently spent a few days with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. R. R. Tibbetts, will leave early in September for London, England. There she will serve as attache, Foreign Service Reserve officer, assigned to the political staff of the United States Embassy on Grosvenor Square.

During the late war she was employed in the Office of Strategic Services. She was then transferred to the State Department, Division of British Commonwealth Affairs. She represented this department at international conferences in Montreal, Toronto, Quebec and Ottawa. Last year she was a member of the United States delegation to the General Assembly of the United Nations at Paris.

Miss Tibbetts was valedictorian of her class at Gould Academy in 1937. She became a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society at Wheaton College in her junior year and graduated Magna Cum Laude with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in 1941. She received a traveling fellowship, the highest award obtainable in graduate school, while studying at Bryn Mawr, and did independent research at Huntington Memorial Library, San Marino, Calif. She received degrees of M. A. Ph. D.

WHO GETS THE BENEFITS?

In 1948 one of the biggest automobile manufacturers made profits of $4c per $1.00 of sales. This profit—less than 10%—is the incentive that keeps this business at work. Let's look at the people it benefited.

First were the employees, who collected $1,343,000,000 in wages and salaries.

The next group, that benefited was Federal, state and local governments that took $464,000,000 in taxes.

Finally the owners—434,000 of them—received $211,000,000.

This is the way the cash benefits from this company were shared: Owners, $1.00; Government Tax Collectors, $2.18; Employees, $6.37.

The customers bought better automobiles than they could buy forty years ago, and they paid only a little more than half as much for them.

Profits keeps this company going. The employees receive the largest share of the benefit. Government takes the next largest share. The stockholders who put up the money to build this corporation and who run the risk of loss, receive the smallest share of all.
